Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☐ Responsive to communication(s) filed on ____.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

- 4) ☒ Claim(s) 1-8 is/are pending in the application.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 3-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claims 3 and 6 recite the broad recitation "at least 2", and the claims also recite "preferably 5 and more preferably 20 grams" which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Information Disclosure Statement

Art Unit: 1761

The listing of references in the specification is not a proper information disclosure statement. 37 CFR 1.98(b) requires a list of all patents, publications, or other information submitted for consideration by the Office, and MPEP § 609 A(1) states, "the list may not be incorporated into the specification but must be submitted in a separate paper." Therefore, unless the references have been cited by the examiner on form PTO-892, they have not been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the admitted state of the prior art.

Applicants' specification discloses that it is known to dry maca and to comminute the rehydrated tubers, (page 2, lines 16, and 17, and 21 and 22). The specification also states that dried maca roots can be powdered and the powder is available in capsule form (page 3, lines 19-29). Claim 1 differs from the reference in that the product is to be a shaped solid food product. Even a capsule containing the maca powder is seen to be a solid and is shaped. Therefore, it would have been obvious to make such a product.

Claim 2 further requires that the maca be added to a cooked food product. Certainly such an old food is known to be added to other cooked foods. Applicants are requested to supply any information they have as to adding the powdered maca to other food products.

Claim 3 further requires particular amounts of maca in a food product and that the maca is packaged. The discovery of an optimum value of a result effective variable is ordinarily within the skill of the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 276, 205 USPQ 215, 219 (CCPA 1980). In developing a food product, properties such as the amount to add is important. It appears that the precise ingredients as well as their proportions affect the composition and characteristics of the product, and thus are result effective variables which one of ordinary skill in the art would routinely optimize. Official Notice is taken that to package a product is well known. Other dry product such as flour, rice, dried milk are examples of packaged dried products. Therefore, it would have been obvious to package the dried maca in particular amounts.

Nothing new is seen in claim 4 of having instructions as to the addition of the powdered maca to solid foodstuffs and claim 5 is to cooking the maca with a food stuff. .

Certainly, such instructions are well known and are within the skill of the ordinary worker. Attention is invited to In re Levin, 84 USPQ 232 and the cases cited therein, which are considered in point in the fact situation of the instant case, and wherein the Court stated on page 234 as follows:

This court has taken the position that new recipes or formulas for cooking food which involve the addition or elimination of common ingredients, or for treating them in ways which differ from the former practice, do not amount to invention, merely because it is not disclosed that, in the constantly developing art of preparing food, no one else ever did the particular thing upon which the applicant asserts his right to a patent. In all such cases, there is nothing patentable unless the applicant by a proper showing further establishes a coaction or cooperative relationship between the selected ingredients which produces a new, unexpected, and useful function. In re Benjamin D. White, 17 C.C.P.A (Patents) 956, 39 F.2d 974, 5 USPQ 267; In re Mason et al., 33 C.C.P.A. (Patents) 1144, 156 F.2d 189, 70 USPQ 221. Therefore, it would have been obvious to have instructions on the package and to add the maca to other foods and cooking the composition.

Claims 6 –8 further require packaging the maca powder in bulk and in using a scoop in the package and combining the maca powder with a grain or vegetable flour. Nothing new is seen in bulk packages as this is a matter of degree in sizing a package and is seen to have been within the skill of the ordinary worker. No coaction of ingredients has been shown in combining 3 known food ingredients as in In re Levin, which has been cited above. Therefore, it would have been obvious to package the powder in various size packages and to mix other ingredients with the maca powder.
